FIFTEEN CENTS

The Weeping Hill of South Wilmington

There was an open house, last Saturday, for the new reservoir of the Burlington Water Department, located near the point where Woburn, Burlington and Wilmington meet - the old Figure of Four Pine corner, mentioned in the act of the Great and General Court of the Colony of Massachusetts which established the Town of Wilmington, back in 1730.

The monument that marks that corner is gone - it presumably disappeared into the foundation of the high dam, which the Town of Burlington was making for its new reservoir. That reservoir, holding 500,000,000 gallons of water pumped from the Shawsheen River, is now full, and there was an Open House Saturday, to show the accomplishment to the public.

Viewed from the Town of Wilmington the picture is a little different. The old mill pond is gone - that's where the reservoir with its high dam is today. The old Mill stream still runs though.

Between the ancient hills through which Mill Brook ran there is still a stream of water. One of those hills - on the Woburn side, is the locale of Cold Spring, which dates back thousands of years, and which supplies a small stream of water to join Mill Brook, and become a part of the Ipswich River, further downstream.

The hill on the Wilmington side of the brook - it never had a spring - until recently. Now it has several.

It has become the Weeping Hill of Wilmington.

Water from the new reservoir is making its way through the ground, and into that hill. From there it flows on the surface, into the back yards and gardens of Wilmington residents, and, in some cases, into the cellars.

To the families who live on southerly end of Chestnut Street, in Wilmington, that new reservoir is not to be ignored. They have proof of its existence, right on their own property.

For years Frank Holland has had a small garden, of several hundred square feet, right beside Chestnut Street. At this time of the year the peas are generally two or three inches high - in fact Frank jokes that he at times thought of trying to win the Town Crier Golden Pea Spoon, for having the first home grown garden peas.

If Frank ever wins that prize it will be with peas from a different garden site. So far this year his garden has been so wet that he has been unable to turn over the soil. Joe Mantini lives in a fairly new home, on Chestnut Street. He has water in the cellar. He doesn't like it.

Next door to Joe is Stan Paralikis. Stan has bought a pump, for his cellar. He is thinking of ripping out the floor and putting in drains, to keep the cellar dry. Stan lives practically under the new 50 foot dam.

A little further up the road is the home of Ed Rooney. Ed is an old timer - lived in the area for years. His father used to work in the old tannery that stood by the road, where Wilmington, Burlington and Woburn meet.

Water flows through his back yard, and that's a new experience for Ed. He took the Town Crier up onto the hill, and showed where the water was coming from - brand new springs, where there never were any before. Part of the water, he says, goes into the yard of Bill Magee, across the street.

A NEW PICTURE OF WILMINGTON'S CHIEF OF POLICE

Probably a dozen years ago in a Town Report of Wilmington there appeared a picture of the Chief of Police, Paul J. Lynch, in his uniform, looking stern. He was gazing into the distance, and the picture appeared much like some of the well known Brady pictures taken during the Civil War, of various officers. The Town Crier promptly dubbed that picture "Chief Lynch at the Battle of Gettysburg".

Now the Town Crier has another photo of the Chief. It is published here for the first time. It was taken Monday night, at the Route 93 Roadside Rest Area hearing, in the Woburn Street School.

Chief Lynch was testifying as to the pervers and other characters who hang around in the rest area, and in order to keep from appearing excited he carefully folded his hands. The result is a new one, for Wilmington's Chief. The Town Crier calls it "Chief Lynch about to enter the confessional booth".

Nearly 100 persons were present to hear Mass DPW Commissioner Bruce Campbell discuss the Route 93 rest area. Campbell finished his discussion by saying that the roadside area would remain closed until he had further talked with the Wilmington selectmen.

In Wilmington it is Schlitz, ten to one

In Wilmington it is Schlitz, ten to one, was the observation of one official of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, participating in the annual Clean Up, last Saturday. He was, of course, referring to the empty beer cans, found by the roadside and in certain parts of town.

The clean up was quite successful. There were volunteers from the Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, DeMolay, and just plain ordinary citizens, including more than a few youngsters, some of whom participated in a massive clean up in the area of the old Silver Lake railroad station.

Hamburger patties, hot dogs, etc. were served to all the workers by Larry Cushing, in his truck. The goodies were contributed by Wilmington merchants.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS: Working along Woburn Street, cleaned the area for over a mile, on both sides.

$15,000 may be needed to solve road problems

Road Cmsr. Richard Trueba has told Tewksbury selectmen he may need at least $15,000 to solve problems on Arkansas and Michigan Roads. The selectmen, on learning this, voted to have all officials and engineers concerned with town roads and rights of way meet to discuss the problem.

Trueba said the only funds he could legally authorize to lay out Arkansas Road properly would have to come from the highway department's operating account. He said that account, however, isn't even large enough to support his department until the end of the 18-month fiscal year.

The funds, he said, would have to come from a transfer from the town's reserve funds, an action that requires finance committee approval.

Officials learned that though three engineering firms are preparing maps or engineering data on town streets, none are preparing data needed to clear up problems of South Tewksbury roads.

Many town roads in that area of the town are located in different places from accepted rights of way, and a house lies in the middle of the accepted right of way of Arkansas Road.

The board voted to invite the road, highway, sewer and water commissions to discuss the problem together with engineers for the highway and sewer departments and a firm preparing two-foot contour maps of the town.

In other action, residents of Whitmore Street complained that trucks entering the DeMoulas company warehouse are using their road, which Trueba termed unsuitable for heavy trucks. They also said access and exit roads from the warehouse were improperly located, and trucks often crossed their property to successfully make turns needed to enter the roads. They also complained that drainage at the site was improperly flooding their land.

Brutality charge probed

Tewksbury police promise self study after residents condemn procedures

Tewksbury Police Chief John F. Sullivan promised to reevaluate his department's procedures and agreed to ask the district attorney to investigate a charge of police brutality after an emotion packed meeting with 15 residents, selectmen and two school committeemen.

Officials attending agreed they would take what the chairman of the selectmen termed "a hard line" in clearing problems in the police and school departments. The selectmen unanimously directed Chief Sullivan to report to them on police activities and his handling of complaints made at the meeting.

During the session police and officials heard several persons complain about alleged police brutality, drugs at the high school, a local bar that allegedly serves minors and administrative mixups in the police and school departments. Charges police brutal

The brutality charge was leveled by a man who alleged he saw two police throw to the ground and beat a man who didn't return the blows.

When he told police at the scene he would testify about the beating, he alleged, they questioned him in what he considered an intimidating way and discussed taking him to the police station.

After the man made the disclosure, Sullivan said he would request the district attorney investigate the case. The selectmen also voted unanimously to ask the district attorney to probe the incident.

Another man said he tipped off police that a quantity of illegal drugs could be found in a certain high school locker at a certain time. Police didn't check the locker until the next day, and by then the drugs were gone, he said.

Drugs sold

The man added that fast action by police was needed in such cases because drugs were usually sold within a few hours after pushers brought them to the school.

Sullivan agreed such information should be investigated immediately, but said on the day the man reported the drugs the department was short-handed. Several of his men, he said, were testifying in court.

School Committeeman James Sullivan said he would discuss drug problems at his group's next meeting. He said he was dissatisfied with a "head in the sand" attitude by school administrators concerning drug problems.

In one case, he said, police and several witnesses said a hospitalized high school girl was suffering from a drug overdose, but administrators denied the reports.

Says bar served boy

Chief Sullivan said he would investigate one parent's complaint that the parent had to pull his 14-year-old teenaged son from a local bar that allegedly served him and other minors.

The police came under fire from several persons on procedures used in a number of cases. Several parents complained that children were present when police broke up a party where drugs and alcohol were being used. After arresting two men, they said, police never notified any of the parents about the children present and a few parents only learned their children were involved through other means.

Chief Sullivan said police who broke up the party were more concerned with arresting several individuals allegedly responsible for the drugs. He said police couldn't arrest the others present because it isn't illegal anymore to be in the presence of drugs.

The selectmen and School Committeeman Sullivan took the police to task for not notifying parents of teenagers present at the party, even though the teenagers weren't guilty of a crime.

warrant procedure

One man complained he swore out a warrant against his son for being a stubborn child two weeks before police arrested the youth. The man complained that the youth never left town, and was visible at several Main Street locations.

On several occasions, he said, he told police where he saw his son, but police didn't arrest him. On several occasions, he said, various patrolmen and sergeants commanding shifts said they didn't know a warrant had been sworn out against the youth.

Chief Sullivan said there were so many warrants outstanding that it wasn't always possible to know if a person was wanted for one reason or another. He added that most police didn't know the man's son and were reluctant to make an arrest unless they clearly knew the person they were arresting.

"It is the responsibility of the sergeant in command of that shift to let all his men know what outstanding warrants there are," commented Frank A. Antonelli, chairman of the selectmen.

Antonelli complained about police entering a Knights of Columbus meeting and arresting a

Newsman, police officer battle over alleged information bar

A Lowell Sun reporter and a Tewksbury police lieutenant have swapped charges over reporters' access to the police station and police information.

Sun reporter Lee Wood has complained to town selectmen that on orders of Lt. Walter J. Jop, he has been barred from the police station and denied further information on police activities. Jop denies the allegations, and says he has only ordered that sergeants commanding police shifts release information to the press.

Wood's complaint drew promises from Chairman Frank A. Antonelli that he would discuss the situation with Police Chief John F. Sullivan. Other selectmen voiced their support for freedom of information and suggested if Wood's complaint proved true the police appeared to be intimidating reporters.

The Sun reporter said when he went to the police station, Sgt. Paul A. Johnson told him he was barred from the building and from receiving further police information on the orders of Lieutenant Jop. Johnson, Wood said, reported that he didn't know if Chief Sullivan knew of the order.

Sergeant Johnson, according to Wood, further related that Jop had ordered that Town Crier reporter Bob Morris was also barred from the station and receiving further police information.

"It seems it is this kind of attitude that is bringing these problems before the board," Wood commented.

Police, Wood said, objected to a story he wrote on a meeting between officials, Chief Sullivan, Lieutenant Jop and several persons who complained of police actions. They particularly disliked the use of the term "shake up" in a headline describing Sullivan's plans for reevaluating his department, a headline Wood said he didn't write.

Morris told selectmen Jop a few days earlier threatened to deny him further police information. Jop, Morris said, objected to a

Selectmen cut Nawn's salary order barring him from office

Tewksbury selectmen have voted to cease paying former building inspector George Nawn, have hired a special town counsel to handle litigation over the inspector's position and directed the attorney to seek a court order barring Nawn from the inspector's office.

In addition, the selectmen have directed Town Counsel Charles J. Zaroulis to determine if Auditor Thomas Berube's signature is needed on a civil service form terminating Nawn's employment. Berube has notified the board he won't sign the notice because Nawn's termination is under litigation.

Selectman Neil Niven Jr. motioned to adjust the town payroll to strike Nawn's salary, and his motion carried unanimously.

Judge refuses to withdraw Granfield order

A Cambridge Superior Court Judge May 3 refused to accept former Tewksbury Building Inspector George Nawn's petition to have a court order withdrawn that reinstated William Granfield as building inspector.

Judge Henry H. Chmielinski told Nawn's attorney, Kevin C. Sullivan, to file a new petition for a declaratory judgement concerning Nawn's bid to regain his job.

Selectmen, acting on a court order issued April 26, rehired Granfield effective April 30. The action came after Judge Walter H. McLaughlin ruled Granfield was improperly fired from the building inspector's job in 1971.

A few weeks after Granfield was fired, the selectmen appointed Nawn as a permanent building inspector. Reportedly the declaratory judgement suggested by Judge Chmielinski would rule on whether the selectmen acted properly in appointing Nawn to the post in 1971, and whether Nawn was therefore entitled to the position.

PLANNING BOARD REJECTS NETANYA PARK

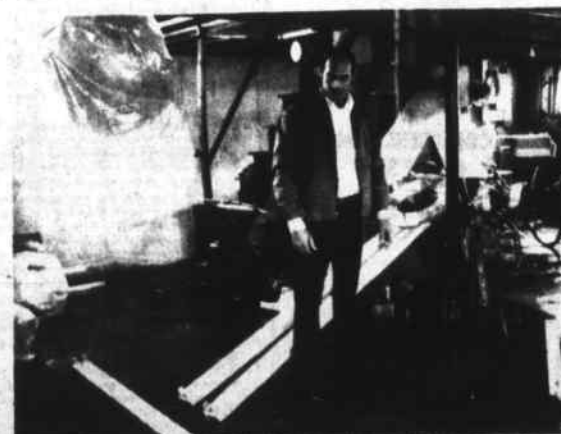

The Tewksbury planning board has voted unanimously to disapprove the definitive plan for Netanyahu Park subdivision off North Billerica Road. A $5000 bond to guarantee work already completed on Windham Road for three years has also been accepted by the board.

Not Exactly Happy

Thanks to the courtesy of State Senator Bill Saltonstall this edition of the Town Crier is able to show the new proposed Third Essex - Middlesex Senatorial District, in Massachusetts. It is, unfortunately, nothing to cheer about.

Some readers will remember that about eight years ago, give or take a little there was a proposal to make Wilmington into a vast ponding area, for down stream towns of the Ipswich River area. Huge flooding areas were to be constructed, that would include some of the fine industrial areas of Wilmington, and, among other things, the High School football field. It was a real threat.

There is a need for water, in some of the towns downstream, including Salem, which is not in the Third District. It now seems to have been solved to a degree by proposals for a cross-country pipe line from the Merrimack River, sometime in the future.

The former proposal was killed through legislation in the State House, introduced at the insistence of two Wilmington Selectmen, and passed with the assistance of Rep. Fred Cain.

The danger is that it might occur again.

In the new Senatorial District, whether it is the incumbent Senator or another, the allegiance of the Senator will be with the towns and cities in Essex County. Wilmington will be a lone voice - over there somewhere in Middlesex County.

In the former Senatorial District, with Senator Ronald MacKenzie, Wilmington could always count on a firm friend. What will be the status in the future, if the question should come up again?

It is a question that could make the people of Wilmington Not Exactly Happy.

Labor Relations Suit Dismissed

The Labor Relations Commission has dismissed an unfair labor practice suit that was filed against the Wilmington School Committee by the Wilmington Teachers' Association. The charge which was filed by the Massachusetts Teachers' Association, on behalf of its local affiliate, alleged that the School Committee had entered into private negotiations with four individual English teachers in allowing them to teach five classes a day in return for not having to serve on bus duty, or float from room to room for various classes. A normal work load for all secondary school teachers if five (5) classes per day, however, English teachers have been teaching four (4) classes per day for the past few years, supposedly because of the increased paper correcting required in that subject. According to Derek R. Little, Acting Superintendent of Schools, the current teachers' contract does not state the number of classes that constitute a normal work day for teachers. The contract guarantees only that teachers will have a minimum of one (1) unassigned period per day. Wilmington High School is presently operating on a seven (7) period day, and plans to go on an eight (8) period day for the 1973-74 school year.

Alan Altman, Wilmington Town Counsel, in defending the School Committee argued that the M.T.A. brought the matter up solely for the purpose of influencing the collective bargaining process which is currently going on between the Wilmington Teachers' Association and the School Committee. The condition, in question, had existed all year long, and yet the unfair labor charges were not filed until March of 1973. No specific teachers were cited as having complained, including the four teachers who are teaching the fifth class.

The Commission agreed and dismissed the action. It stated that even if the Wilmington Teachers' Association did, indeed, have some complaint, its appropriate avenue for lodging its concern should have been through an already established grievance procedure.

Dr. John P. Silvers, of Salem St., Wilmington has been appointed as permanent full-time director of the Massachusetts Science and Technology Foundation in Wakefield.

Bill Manning, awarded scholarship to Albion College.

William Manning Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Manning of 8 Lloyd Road, Wilmington has been awarded a $2300 scholarship to Albion College at Albion, Michigan. Bill will graduate from Wilmington High School in June and will leave for Albion on August 27th. He plans to major in psychology.

Among his many accomplishments, Bill is a member of the National Honor Society, a Junior Rotarian and has been most active in organizing and participating in the "Walk for Development" in Wilmington for the past three years.

Police Department says minibikes must be registered

The Wilmington Police Department is going to do some serious checking, in cases of youngsters riding on "minibikes".

Too many parents think of them as toys, and somebody may be killed, the police say.

Minibikes may be registered as motor vehicles to be operated on the road, and the operator must have a valid license, and wear protective headgear. These bikes must meet the requirements of the Registry of Motor Vehicles.

The requirements include: (1) An approved braking system capable of stopping within 30 feet from a speed of 20 mph. (2) SAE approved tail light, stop light, headlamp and plate light. (3) A rear view mirror, horn, lock and key, and muffler. (4) Fenders must be in place and be adequate to prevent spray from wheels, and the hot exhaust system components which could contact the operator must be suitably caged or screened. (5) Be equipped with a device to permit front and rear directional signals to flash simultaneously when the vehicle is disabled or stopped for an emergency.

If a minibike does not meet the requirements of the Massachusetts Registry, they must be registered as a recreational vehicle, with the Division of Marine and Recreational Vehicles.

To operate a recreational vehicle, the operator must be at least 14 years old. They may be operated by a person who is under 14 only if accompanied by a parent.

The law says that after age 16½ a driver, after stopping, may cross his minibike on a public way as directly as possible, providing that it is safe to do so and he yields to all automobile traffic. He may not cross on a limited access highway, such as Route 93 or Route 125.

Both drivers and passengers must wear approved headgear.

Recreation minibikes should never be used on streets, sidewalks or on any public thoroughfare. They may be driven only in supervised areas such as grass or dirt tracks, on special trails. On private property, such as a park or forest preserve, permission should be obtained from the authority in charge.

It is expected that there will be 75,000 minibike injuries in 1973, many of which will be fatal.

Tewksbury Police
man on a warrant concerning an unpaid bill. "It makes me wonder what the hell is going on," he added.

Agrees action poor
Of his men's actions concerning the club arrest, Sullivan commented, "We agree it was in very poor taste."

Lt. Walter J. Jop Jr., under questioning from the selectmen, said part of the department's administrative problems were due to the large amount of administrative work he had to do. Chief Sullivan said he would take steps to have other men do some of the administrative work.

Several persons complained about a neighborhood resident who consistently disturbed the peace. They said recently they called police to have the man arrested, but police only came to the street, talked to the man and went away. Chief Sullivan said he and Lt.

Walter J. Jop Sr. reprimanded the two police who didn't arrest the man. They said the man had been involved in much publicity with the police and the two police investigating the case were reluctant to arrest him again.

Several parents complained that police were allowing several teenagers to continue illegal activities in return for information on other juvenile lawbreakers. Such teenagers were called "feds" by other students, one mother said.

Chief Sullivan denied his men protected the teenagers, adding, "If my police department is a part of it I'll get to the bottom of it." Sullivan said one parent's reports of payoffs to teenagers informers were inaccurate, as the police had no funds to buy information.

A mother complained that after her family had an incident involving police, a patrol car repeatedly followed her daughter around town.

TOWN CRIER TEWKSBURY/WILMINGTON
Scores
school authorities
One parent complained that without his knowledge his son was absent from high school for 26 days in a term before the school department notified him of the absences. He said the boy was absent 16 more days in the same term before he got another notice.

School Committeeman Edward L. Irwin said he was disturbed about the case because administrators were supposed to contact parents about excessive absences. School Committeeman Sullivan said the case appeared to be a "freak," but promised to investigate it.

Several parents complained that youths sought by the police and high school dropouts were allowed to roam around the high school and eat lunch there. Referring to drug pushing minors, one man said, "They are coming back to the school, they make their score and they are gone for two more weeks."

"If what you say is true, and these kids are roaming the corridors, some heads are going to roll," School Committeeman Sullivan commented.

Blames triple sessions
Irwin suggested many of the high school's problems were due to the triple sessions and a lack of administrative personnel at the school.

Chief Sullivan, questioned by School Committeeman Sullivan, said drug violations, breaks and other crimes involving teenagers increased since the high school went on triple sessions.

School Committeeman Sullivan

suggested the triple sessions might be a cause of juvenile crime. Chairman Antonelli explained that the meeting was held because several of the persons attending made complaints to the selectmen and it was their duty to act on them. He said the board hadn't held the meeting for political or anti-police reasons.

During the meeting, Chief Sullivan said his department arrested more than 150 persons so far this year on charges ranging from motor vehicle violations to narcotics sales. He added that 60 per cent of the breaks reported in the town were drug related.

The meeting ended fairly amicably, with officials, police and residents promising to cooperate more in the future.

Information Bar

story in which Morris covered Ptl. Thomas E. Flynn's criticisms of his department's procedures in an open session of the selectmen. Morris added that he had visited the station since Jop made the remarks and hadn't been barred from the building or specifically denied information.

Wood questioned whether Jop

THURSDAY MAY 10, 1973

had the authority to issue such orders, and said if Sullivan had, he would like to see it in writing.

"Sometimes I wonder if the chief knows what is actually going on," Antonelli said.

Selectman Neil Niven Jr. said if the charges were true, Jop was intimidating reporters. Selectman Joseph J. Whelan said both reporters were clearly not intimidated by the situation.

"If someone said you did something and you can't go there, or do this or that, than that is intimidation," Niven answered.

Whelan said all officials had obligations to provide information to the press, and recalled that he was an early supporter of the state's open meeting law. He added that the press also had obligations to report fairly, and also objected to the Sun's use of the word "shakeup" in describing Sullivan's actions with the department.

Jop told this newspaper the next day that he never issued an order barring Wood from the station. "It is a public building. He can come in here when he wants and sit there," he said. Information was given to Sun reporters who called the station each day, Jop added.

The lieutenant said he only directed that stories on police activities be released by sergeants commanding each shift. He said he didn't want patrolmen interviewed individually by reporters, and said there was some information on the blotter and other records that might not be proper material for news stories. Jop admitted the Town Crier never used such material in an improper manner.

Salary
turn the selectmen's action in firing him from the post in 1971.

Niven immediately motioned to have Engleman seek a restraining order to stop Nawn from entering the inspector's office. Niven said the action was necessary because Nawn reported to the office twice each working day and entered the administrative area behind the counter.

"He has no business to perform in the office, and he is harassing him (Granfield) and causing trouble," Niven said.

Niven's motion carried 3-2, with selectmen 2, with selectmen Whelan and Donald E. Sheehan in opposition.

The decision to have Zaroulis determine if Berube's signature is needed on the termination notice came after a 15 minute executive session.

Earlier, in open session, Niven suggested the selectmen get a court order directing that Berube sign the termination order. Town Counsel Zaroulis, however, said Berube's signature on the document might not be necessary, and a court order "might not be feasible." He recommended the matter be discussed behind closed doors.

Roads

The board agreed to invite a DeMoulas representative to explain activities at the warehouse site, and spokesmen for the highway department, conservation commission, health board and building inspector's office attend too.

The board voted to appeal a Department of Public Utilities order allowing New England Power Company to survey land in towns that include Tewksbury to increase land for power lines.

Town Counsel Charles J. Zaroulis reported the power company only planned to take land in other towns. The selectmen decided to appeal the order in hopes of insuring the company didn't take land in Tewksbury. Builder Amando DeCarolis and James Kintigos, of Colonial Realty, swapped charges about each other's dealings in real estate matters. Kintigos accused DeCarolis of improperly dividing land to gain profits. DeCarolis accused Kintigos of selling a home he built without making recommended changes necessary to prevent its cellar from being flooded.

WILMINGTON SCHOOLS
CLOSE JUNE 19

The Wilmington School Committee, at its regular meeting of May 3rd, voted to establish the following dates for the closing of schools for the 1972-73 school year.

The last day of school for students this year will be Tuesday, June 19th. That day will be a half day of school, therefore, no school lunches will be served throughout the system.

The date for the Wilmington High School Graduation Ceremony was also set at 4 pm, Sunday, June 3rd. As in the past, graduation ceremonies will be held on the high school athletic field.

TEWKSBURY, 5 YOUNGEST ROTARIAN: Was inducted into the Rotary Club on May 3rd by Past Dist. Governor John Gleason. Kenny Patch, who is 25, operates a motorcycle shop on Main Street, opposite the fairport.

MASSACHUSETTS RED CROSS BLOOD PROGRAM BLOOD DONOR REQUIREMENTS

A donor must be in good health to donate blood. Red Cross trained Registered Nurses will evaluate all donors individually and confidentially to determine whether they should donate.

Nourishment:

Blood donors should eat a regular well-balanced meal - either breakfast, lunch or dinner within four hours prior to donation. Do not attempt to donate with an empty stomach. Avoid fatty foods such as butter, cream, ice cream or eggs.

Weight

Both men and women must weigh at least 110 pounds.

Sleep

Normal rest the night prior to donation.

Age

Eighteen years up to 66 years. Those 66 years and over may donate provided they have a statement from their personal physician written within two weeks of date of donation.

Jaundice, Hepatitis and Malaria

Anyone who has ever had an attack of these diseases cannot be accepted as a donor. Donors having had anti-malarial drugs must wait three years from the date of the last dose of drug.

Cancer

Anyone who has had cancer of any kind, other than skin cancer, cannot donate. Healed skin cancer may be accepted under certain circumstances. The head nurse will evaluate.

Epilepsy

A donor who has had epilepsy or seizures in any form cannot be accepted.

Infectious Mononucleosis

A person must wait at least six months after recovery so long as there was no jaundice.

Heart Disease

Heart disease of any kind is a permanent deferral. Uncomplicated Rheumatic Fever does not defer the donor. Donors with a resultant heart murmur from Rheumatic Fever should bring a note from a physician stating it is safe to donate.

Chronic Sinusitis and Hayfever

Donor is accepted if symptom free on day of donation and off medication for 24 hours. Seven day waiting period after desensitization shot.

Pregnancy

Donor not accepted during pregnancy or for six months thereafter.

Diabetic

Surgery

Not accepted as a donor for six months following major surgery or serious illness. Serious accidents require an adequate waiting period. Any receiving a blood transfusion must wait six months before donating.

Shots

Immunization shots, including flu, and polio medication - requires 24 hour waiting period. Desensitization shot for allergy requires one week waiting period. Smallpox vaccination (or after scab is off) and yellow fever shot - requires two week waiting period. Rabies shots - requires one year waiting period.

Ulcers

Conditions must be evaluated by head nurse since many factors are involved.

Drugs

In order to evaluate the prospective donors medical history, the name of any drugs being taken must be known. Antibiotics taken by mouth require a minimum of two weeks waiting period except tetracycline for acne which requires only 48 hours. Shots of penicillin require one month waiting period.

Frequency of Donations

Eight weeks must elapse between donations. For the protection of the donor, no more than five donations in a twelve month period can be made.

(Scuba divers and pilots must wait 72 hours after donation before resuming such activity. Twelve hour waiting period for those climbing ladders or working in high places.).

Any questions as to the acceptability must be evaluated and decision made by the head nurse.

SPRING HOCKEY

WILMINGTON YOUTH HOCKEY

Bantam A's (3-3-0). The A's lost to hard skating Stoneham Club last Thursday night by a 4-2 count. Stoneham displayed good positional play and fine goalkeeping that frustrated the Wilmington offense. Steve Pellerin and Joe Steen were two of the standouts for the A's.

The scoring opened at 3:05 of the first period when Gordie Fitch dug the puck out of the corner and got it back to Ken Plummer at the point. The A's defenseman blast rebounded off the back board and deflected in off the Stoneham goalie. Stoneham bounced back with goals at 10:41 and 13:34 of the frame to take the lead. Single markers in each of the middle and final frames provided the margin of victory for Stoneham.

Bantam B's (4-1-0). Coach Gerry McPhee's Bantams trounced Cambridge on April 29, 9-0, as goaltender George Ravagni turned in his second shutout of the season.

Wilmington took a 2-0 lead in the opening period on goals by Ron Marasco and Tom Gracia. Paul Sullivan (2) and Greg Moulton tallied in the middle frame to increase the B's lead to 5-0. The boys made it a complete rout in the final stanza scoring four more times as Mike Carlin, Ron Marasco, Tonto Walden and Sullivan each lit the scoring lamp once each.

Bantam C's (1-0-0). Under the direction of Bob Murphy the C's defeated Wakefield, 6-5 in their initial league encounter at Tyngsboro. Ken Morse fired home a three goal "hat trick" to lead the winners, while Steve Theriault scored twice and Todd Richards lit the lamp once.

Pee Wee A's (3-1-2). Defeated Arlington 4-0 last Saturday at the Arena as four different boys scored. Unassisted goals came off the sticks of Steve Wingate and Kidd. Mickle from Murphy and McCann from Kidd closed out the scoring in the last period.

Pee Wee B's (4-1-0). Wilmington moved into third place, trouncing Arlington, 11-0 last Saturday afternoon. Led by the aggressive play of Rick Robinson and Paul Sousa, the B's poured 29 shots on the Arlington goalie, while allowing only eight on their own net minders.

Dennis Foley, Paul Boudreau, Pete Gunn and Bob Greenberg scored twice each, while Tim McCann, Rich Robinson and Paul Sousa lit the lamp once each.

Squirt A's (4-1-1). In spite of being out shot 24-21 by Wakefield last Sunday morning the A's outscored their opponents for a 7-4 win. After a scoreless first period Wakefield took the lead at 9:50 of the middle frame. Then Don Foley scored twice with assists from Mark LaLiberte, Dana Kidd and Bob Lowney.

Wakefield answered with one more to tie the game at 2-2 and then Dave Kidd scored twice still in the second stanza to give Wilmington a 4-2 lead. In the last frame both Foley and Kidd scored once each to give them a hat trick each, while Mark Boudreau closed out the scoring.

Mite A's (4-1-1). Wilmington's youngest traveling squad put together their finest performance of the season Monday night as they whipped a rugged Billerica sextet,

GIRLS SOFTBALL

The Wildcats travelled to Chelmsford last Thursday and lost their third game in a row by a score of 7-3. The Lions whacked a total of fifteen hits, combined with four Wilmington errors, was all they needed to beat the varsity. Wilmington could only scrape up five hits and scored on throwing errors all three times. Cheryl Reed was called upon to handle the pitching chores, and didn't do a very effective job. Reed gave up all seven runs, was hit off nine times, and wiffed one batter. Mary Ann Langone came in to relieve Reed, and gave up six hits, while issuing only one walk. Wilmington got back into the swing of things as they journeyed to Andover Tuesday, and clobbered the Golden Warriors, 16-7. After scoring only ten runs in three games, Wilmington nine scored sixteen runs, collected 23 hits, and made no errors. The hitting attack was led by Patty Pintrich, who had six hits, scored four runs, and stole three bases. The

BASEBALL

The Wildcats dropped themselves into a first place tie last Thursday by losing to an overpowering Lawrence Central Catholic squad, 19-6. Prior to the contest, Wilmington had a one game lead (4-1) over the Raiders, and the loss evened their records to 4-2. Austin Prep also had a 4-2 slate, so the three teams shared the honors.

After a 9-5 five inning lead, the Raiders exploded for a total of nine runs in the sixth frame to put the icing on the cake.

Wilmington went through three pitchers and still could not come up with the right combination. Barry Foster (1-2) was handed the loss. When asked to comment on the game, Coach Gilligan stated, "It was a bad day for everyone."

Seven Merrimack Valley teams shared the division lead over the weekend, and Wilmington was one of them. The Wildcats lost a heart-breaker to Chelmsford last Friday, 7-5, but managed to stay tied for first. With records of 4-3, Austin Prep, Central Catholic, Dracut, Methuen, Tewksbury and Wilmington were the teams sharing the lead. Billerica was in second with a record of 4-4, and only a narrow margin out of first.

Tom Woods had two rbi's, and Steve Coursey added the other. Wayne Crosswell had all Wilmington batters with two singles and a double. Wayne also scored two runs.

The Wildcats had a 5-1 fifth frame lead, but a three run sixth inning homer closed the gap to 5-4. The varsity was held at bay in their half of the sixth, and the score remained 5-4 with the seventh just ahead. The Lions whacked two singles and a double

SPRING TRACK

The W.H.S. track squad journeyed to Billerica last Thursday and suffered a 73-58 decision at the hands of the Indians. Billerica took ten out of sixteen firsts and did the same in the third place category. Rick McCully tied the record in the 180 low hurdles. Rick shares the record set by Bill Badiali last year. The loss lowered the team's record to 3-2 and put them in a four way tie for third.

The Wilmington High School frosh-soph track team travelled to Lawrence Stadium last Saturday to participate in the Annual Central Freshman-Sophomore Invitational Meet. The Wildcats earned second place in the meet with 47 points, losing only to Haverhill who won with a total of 79 points. Twenty-four teams entered the meet.

Rick McCully's first place time of 13.7 set a new meet record in the 120 low hurdles.

to boast a 6-5 lead, and Barry Foster came in to relieve starter Phil Morrissey. A long fly ball to right brought the score to 7-5. Foster wiffed the last batter, and Wilmington needed three runs to win. A lead off single by Bob Stewart, a double by Wayne Crosswell, and a walk to Steve Coursey loaded the bases. Two pop flies to short stop and a strike out ended the game with the bases full.

Chelmsford	010 003 3-7
Wildcats	020 120 0-5

Wilmington dropped its third game in a row Monday to Dracut, 4-3. The Wildcats have been having their troubles of late, mostly with pitching. Bob Reid tangled with the mound and gave up four hits, ten base on balls, while striking out four. The walks played a big role in the game, as three consecutive walks in the third with one man on brought across the third Middle run. A single to left scored the fourth and what proved the winning run.

Wilmington had a bid going in the sixth inning. With two outs, Harrison and Woods singled. Paul Olson followed with a bunt hit to left to score Harrison, but Reid wiffed to end the threat as well as the inning.

The Wildcats record now stands at 4-4. Wilmington will be trying to redeem themselves with a two game home stand against Austin Prep and Billerica.

REMAIN UNDEFEATED

Wilmington's "B" and "AA" team entries, sponsored by the Recreation Department remain at the top of their respective divisions by remaining undefeated through their first four encounters.

After defeating Lexington in the first game by a score of 3 to 1 the "AA" team coached by John Kalkanajian and Paul Kritter met and defeated Danvers in an away battle to the tune of 4-1. In this game the scoring began with Ralph Decker getting the lone goal of the first half by way of a penalty kick. Danvers knotted the score with five minutes gone in the second half. With rain beating down, Mark Kalkanajian got what proved to be the game winner with assists going to Dave Maloney and Bob Swisher. Wilmington added two more tallies as Chris Dicecca scored with assists going to Kalkanajian and Swisher. Frank Simmons concluded the scoring with an assist by B. Pidgon.

Over 550 young people completed the march, the first one coming in at 2 pm. The last stragglers limped across the finish line shortly after 8 pm. Perhaps every "mother's child" among them deserves a spirited "tip of the old fedora"! Those who didn't make it had the best of intentions and their efforts are to be admired.

The "Walk for Development" has become an annual event in the area. Proceeds are used to aid underdeveloped and underprivileged areas the world over.

TAKEOVER NOT AUTOMATIC

When buying an existing home, taking over a mortgage that was financed at a considerably lower interest rate can be practical and profitable. But be cautious.

Never take for granted that handing over the loan obligation to another is automatic. If you are the seller, you can't hand over your mortgage to anyone you choose. The lender has a stake in who's going to repay him, so notify him of your intent to transfer the loan and get a copy of the original mortgage document.

Lenders often have the power to use "acceleration clauses" to block assumptions they regard as risky by demanding repayment in full. Some lenders may view a transfer as an opportunity to raise the interest rate. To avoid pitfalls in this area, you'd be well advised to get the competent assistance of a Realtor and lawyer before making such a commitment.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at RICHARD D. SIMMONS, REALTORS, 26 Princess St., Wakefield. Phone: 245-7878. We're here to help!

New activity in Alderwood Estates

There has been a sudden flurry of activity in the Alderwood Estates real estate development, in East Wilmington. The activity has led residents and neighbors to ask questions of town officials, and activities seemed to come to a sort of peak, Tuesday night, in the Wilmington Planning Board meeting.

Alderwood Estates, started in 1961, has been inactive for about five years, following a Hatch Act hearing, and the subsequent bankruptcy proceedings of the developer, a Mr. MacFarland. The Wilmington Planning Board some years ago declared the remainder of the plan for the development, about 30 homes, to be rescinded.

The Planning Board's activity was only one of two actions which were merely exercises, without meaning. The other action was a unanimous vote by the Board of Selectmen, in turning down an application, in a Hatch Act hearing.

The original development, as it proceeded, ran into difficulties, principally with water problems. There were complaints of wet cellars, and of wet areas. The problem was complicated a bit because the Board of Selectmen had allowed some thousands of yards of loam from the old farm area to be trucked elsewhere - loam that might have absorbed at least a little of the water.

The developer, half a dozen years ago, produced a plan for drainage, principally of the new section of about 30 homes into which he hoped to go, but which would, it was said, tend to alleviate problems in the earlier construction. There was a Hatch Act hearing on the plan, made by a Civil Engineer, with many residents present, to watch the Selectmen. The Selectmen voted No, unanimously, in spite of the fact that the Town Engineer made a statement that the proposed plan would do what it said it would do.

Then, after the developer had filed in bankruptcy, the bank (Newton Cooperative) foreclosed its mortgage, and about the same time, the Wilmington Planning Board declared the development plans to be rescinded.

About a year ago it turned out that the Planning Board could not declare the plan rescinded, because of the mortgage on the area. Their action was null and void, and was so declared in court.

It also turned out that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, through the Department of Natural Resources, had reversed the action of the Board of Selectmen, with regard to the Hatch Act hearing.

The plan for Kenwood Road, which is the principal road of the development, would make that road a connecting street between Woburn Street and West Street, near the big curve which is east of Lowell Street. Kenwood Road doesn't quite go to West Street. There is a short unnamed street, called "The T", in the Planning Board discussions, Tuesday, which connects at one end with West Street, but which runs into private land, owned by the Silva family on the other.

"The T" looks, on a casual glance, to be a short cut - the chord across the arc of the curve - of West Street. It isn't. The Silva family owns about 15 feet of land at the end of it. "The T" developed after the Town of Wilmington nearly 20 years ago, voted to put in a water main across the chord, instead of on the arc, of West Street.

There is a water main easement across the Silva land, but no road. The town rebuilt a small hill on the Silva land, and planted a fir tree there, after the water main had been installed.

West Street, it might noted, because of that curve and others, and because it is a narrow street, is a place where young people on motorcycles and in speeding cars kill themselves. There have been several fatal accidents in the neighborhood of that curve.

There has also been an engineering survey, by County Engineers, to widen and straighten the street, under the so-called Chapter 90 Construction. The Board of Selectmen, and not without cause, rejected the proposal after a public hearing, in which residents felt that they would lose too much land, in front of their homes.

Two weeks ago the action started. The Silva family, and the Papera family were suddenly sending out calls of alarm.

They attended a Planning Board meeting with a story of action in the development, with workmen or others not paying attention to land boundaries. Trucks were being parked in the Papera property, and there seemed to be a threat to cut through the Silva property, and thus made "The T" an actual connection of two parts of West Street.

The new owner, they said, was a Mr. Drinkwater, from, they believed, Malden. Planning Board Chairman Arthur Harding, who, five years ago was the Town Engineer, explained the situation to them.

The plan of land had not been rescinded, Harding told them. The Selectmen's Hatch Act hearing had been disapproved, and there had been renewals, so that it was a current permission to drain. Mr. Drinkwater, or whoever owned the land, had a perfect right to cut trees and to make roads.

Getting building permits was another matter, which would be up to the Building Inspector and the Sanitarian, Harding said.

During the afternoon of May 3 there were three telephone calls, within three minutes, to the Town Crier office. A bulldozer, the messages said, was cutting down the hill on the Silva property.

The messages went not only to the Town Crier, but to the Wilmington Police, and even to the office of Mr. Harding in Sudbury. Mr. Harding is now Town Engineer of that town.

A trip to the site found a bulldozer, with a Drinkwater emblem on it, at the site of the Silva "Hill". It had started to cut through, but was stopped. The operator was awaiting new orders.

A Wilmington Policeman was talking with a person in a Cadillac - Mr. Drinkwater or someone else. Later that evening there was an informal meeting at the site. Town Manager Sterling Morris, the Supt. of Highways, the Acting Town Engineer. The area had been cut through, and levelled off, but the fir tree was still standing.

This is an approved subdivision, and the owner of the property can extend it out to West Street. Because the subdivision dates back to 1961 no underground wiring will be needed.

Peters and Novak said that "99% of the people" - (of Alderwood Estates, Ed) want to know what protection they have. They fear that a lot of fill is going to be put in - and they fear that Kendall Street will become a raceway, open at both ends to speeders.

Mr. Silva was told to put up a barrier - a rope or something, and to put up a sign forbidding trespassing.

This was done, and there seems to have been no further attempts to go on the Silva property.

There has been action, too, on the developed end of Kendall Street. The people in that area had formed a sort of association, to get their roads completed, after the bankruptcy of the former developer. Two persons, members of that former association, were at the Planning Board meeting Tuesday night - Bruce Peters and Emil Novak. There were also members of the Wilmington Conservation Commission, Mesdames Papaliolios, Leahy and Kaufman, and chairman Arthur Bureau. All had a tale to tell.

Again Mr. Harding said that there was an Approved Hatch Act proceeding, in force, and that Mr. Drinkwater or who ever owned the rest of the development had a right to proceed. The Planning Board, he said, would go through its Minutes of the Meetings, but he didn't expect much to be developed that way. The Newton Cooperative Bank had sued the Planning Board, and has a clear ti-

Bob Leahy of the Planning Board suggested that West Street could be made one way - so that traffic would all be in the direction of away from Lowell Street and towards Woburn Street.

The two men told Harding that they understood that the new developer was not planning to put in Timothy Road - which is planned off Kendall Street. They also understood that the former owner had given away two lots of land, in the new area, before he declared bankruptcy.

The new owner, Peters said "Could throw up forty shacks".

Selectman Danny Gillis, who was present for a few minutes, said that the former Hatch Act proceedings, now valid, were for only a small portion of the real estate development, as the overruling had been made. It was for the culvert on West Street (where the water runs into the Foley meadow, Ed) and for a small part of Kendall Street. Gillis also said that in 1961 or thereabouts, a colored drainage plan had been submitted as a part of the Planning Board proceedings for approval, and that the new owner should be made to conform to that plan, as it was a part of the approval.

Mr. Macjeski was asking that the Planning Board order the owner of the subdivision to discontinue work within the subdivision under the provisions of Section VII, Sub Section B, until there is sufficient time "to allow for a meaningful field inspection by our department".

The Town Engineer's letter referred to a letter to Alfred T. Drinkwater and Louis P. Drinkwater, dated May 4th, for a more detailed description.

The May 4 letter had been written by the Town Manager, and sent by Certified Mail according to the copy in the Planning Board meeting to the two Messrs. Drinkwater.

The letter told the two men that they had on May 3rd trespassed on private property of Edward T. Silva with a bulldozer. They had removed material from the Silva property. It also said that they had no permit of any kind to construct a way entering upon West Street.

"This operation must stop immediately. If there is any further violation the Police Department will be instructed to take appropriate action".

There was, Mr. Harding said, a question as to whether or not the Drinkwater people or someone else was the owners. Mrs. Papaliolios volunteered to check out the ownership, in the Registry of Deeds in Lowell.

The board inspected the details of an unsigned plan, which presumably was a part of the Hatch Act proceedings, as there were details of "A" and "B" for the two spots where Gillis had said there was permission from the Hatch Act proceedings. Mr. Leahy said in effect that the argument is that the present order covers the present end of Kenwood Road, and the drain into the Foley field, and that, by doing anything down near "The T" the workmen now employed would be in violation of the Wet Lands Act.

Mrs. Papaliolios and Mrs. Kaufman, speaking of the wet lands near "The T" said that they, and a Tom Lewickie, agent of the Commonwealth's Conservation Department, had inspected the territory on Tuesday.

In discussions of "The T" several statements were made. Arthur Bureau, chairman of the Conservation Commission thought that "The T" would make enough of a horror (in auto traffic) to "declare it a disaster area". Mr. Harding discussed more fully the concept of making West Street and Kendall Street one way. He didn't seem to like the idea, but he also didn't like the alternative - "it could be horrible".

The discussions ended with the writing of a letter designed to allow the Acting Town Engineer to make the field inspections he wants.

To whom the letter will be sent is a question - either to the two Drinkwaters, or to the Newton Cooperative Bank. The name of the address is going to depend on what Mrs. Papaliolios finds, in the Lowell Registry of Deeds, as to ownership.

The Wilmington School Committee on May 3 approved the educational specifications for a new 1600 pupil high school. The specifications had been prepared by the administration and department heads under the supervision of Derrick Little and contained each department's projected needs and wants for the forthcoming school years. The most significant actions taken by the School Committee were the rejection of a proposed hockey rink and an optional choice of a swimming pool to be presented to the next town meeting.

Industrial Arts and Home Economics are the main areas to be expanded. An automotive section will be included to give industrial arts more than twice the area of any other course. Homemaking classes will utilize sophisticated facilities and introduce a new Bachelor Survival course.

Other notable changes and modifications include an enlarged and modern library with an audiovisual workroom and a darkroom for new photography curriculum. A small amphitheater will be constructed to accommodate a seating capacity of about 200 students. program. DeLuca explained that in many instances work study was a "last ditch effort to keep students in school." In this program the youngster receives his education and works at a job where his interests lay. He astonished the Committee by saying that one student had earned over $700.00 in one year while on the work study program. This reporter then asked if it were possible to take a post grad course and reap some of the financial rewards. DeLuca explained that the program was already overcrowded thus refusing entrance of this reporter into the lucrative work study program.

DeLuca also gave a report on the Neighborhood Youth Corps of which he is chairman. Last year $26,000 was provided to give jobs to deserving and needy students. This year, because of President Nixon's economic plan, no funds have been allocated to the N.Y.C. program. DeLuca has worked out all details for N.Y.C. jobs and is optimistic that the much needed money will somehow be allocated.

What is veneer? Veneer is a sheet of natural wood cut from selected log on either a giant lathe or a slicer. The log is secured in position and automatically moved up against a razor sharp blade which cuts the log into slices — "peels" it off in long continuous sheets.

The cutting method determines the appearance of the wood and depends on the wood species, the particular log, and the grain figure desired.

The three most common methods used are: rotary cut, flat-sliced, quarter-sliced.

Veneer thickness varies according to the end of the paneling itself. The look of veneer is lovely for your walls, furniture, and floors.

YOUR Pharmacist SPEAKS

How much good are sunglasses? In Grandma's day they were unheard of, but today they are regarded as a normal and even necessary part of our every day life.

They keep squinting and tired eyelids at a minimum. They protect the eye against excessive glare, especially in the winter snow and on sunny beaches.

Sunglasses also protect the eyes from dust and windburn, so you need not apologize to Grandma at all!

Summer is just around the corner and that's the time we think mostly of sun glasses - although at Silver Lake Pharmacy, 52 Main St., Wilmington, we stock them the year around. Our cosmetic department features the finest selection of new make-up for you for the fun and sun months ahead. Phone 658-4617. Open seven days a week from 9 am to 10 pm.

Helpful Hint: Cut the collar off dad's old shirt and save it to use as an artist's smock for the small artist in your family.
